

Who's Stefan vom Bruch? He is an experienced Master Data Management Consultant at foryouandyourcustomers.

More about Stefan vom Bruch (svb) at <https://svb.foryouandyourcustomers.com>.

What Stefan vom Bruch offers

As Master Data Management (MDM) Consultant, Stefan provides a creative and detail-oriented approach to problem solving, driven by his passion for technology and his desire to make his clients' lives easier. His extensive experience in the IT industry enable him to design and deliver flexible and robust solutions that meet your business's needs.

Stefan provides a creative and detail-oriented approach to problem solving, driven by his passion for technology and his desire to make his clients' lives easier.

His Background

With a degree in Computer Science and a background in Software Development, Stefan developed his skills working across a range of industries like Digital Services, Consumer Goods, including FMCG, and Government. He gained his experience in Europe and Australia in various IT roles including Consultant, Project Coordinator, Technical Lead, Business Analyst, and Software Engineer among others.

His varied background allowed him to become familiar with all phases of the delivery of a project, from its inception and the gathering and documentation of requirements, across solution design and implementation, to deployment, maintenance, and support. More recently he concentrated on the delivery of projects in the areas of Business Intelligence (BI) and Master Data Management (MDM), like the implementation of the MDM project at GPC Asia Pacific with over one million active auto parts.

Stefan joined foryouandyourcustomers in July 2020 as an MDM Consultant. His solid business sense, and his eclectic and pragmatic approach to solution design and delivery allow him to efficiently create solutions tailored to the needs of clients.