

Who's Astrid Strobl? Software Developer at foryouandyourcustomers, who supports customers in implementing their project ideas.

More about Astrid Strobl (acs) at <https://acs.foryouandyourcustomers.com>.

What Astrid Strobl offers

As a software developer, Astrid Strobl supports the customers of foryouandyourcustomers in implementing their project ideas. It is very important for her and her work to learn as much as possible about the processes and requirements in order to develop a tailor-made solution for her clients.

“Tailor-made software solutions in multichannel that inspire users - that's my passion.”

Her Background

In June 2017, Astrid Strobl graduated from the Higher Technical Federal Teaching and Research Institute Wiener Neustadt in the Department of Computer Science. This technical education gave her an insight into modeling software architectures and data models as well as software development with Python, Java, C# and C++.

In her private life she has also been involved in software development in an agile context. In the course of projects of the past years she was able to expand her skills and is still curious to get to know new topics in implementation.

In addition to her work, Astrid Strobl studied computer science at the University of Applied Sciences Technikum Vienna in her spare time, during the first 3 years of working at foryouandyourcustomers. In September 2020 she completed her studies with a bachelor's degree.